

CATALOGUE OF SANSKRIT MANUSCRIPTS: JOHAN VAN MANEN COLLECTION

Note:

A five-year IAS-project for the preparation and compilation of a catalogue of the South Indian Sanskrit manuscripts of the Johan van Manen collection started in January 2004, 75 years after the first lot of these manuscripts had arrived in Leiden. The project was carried out by manuscriptologist and Sanskrit research scholar Dr. Saraju Rath who is happy to acknowledge the funding received for this project from the Stichting J. Gonda Fonds (KNAW), the support of the IAS, and the library assistance received from the staff of the Kern Library.

The entire Johan van Manen collection of Sanskrit palm leaf manuscripts, consisting of 382 manuscript bundles (including a number of hardly legible uninked manuscripts) and written in various South Indian scripts, has now been studied, identified and analysed, and the first complete list of texts is here made available to scholars. The titles normally appear here as they are given in the colophon or at the beginning of the text. The handlist available till now for this collection is the one published by H. 't Hart in 1992 which contained 395 titles of texts. The present list contains almost 50% more texts: 588.

NB:

- i. Numbers with a, b, c, d etc. within round brackets under the column accession no. indicate the number of extra texts put under one bundle.
- ii. A title between square brackets under the column of Titles indicates that the title is inferred from the subject matter in the absence of an adequate colophon.
- iii. A missing number in the column of accession nos. (e.g. I. 53, II. 8, II, 9) points to an open place in the list that came with the boxes or to the disappearance of a manuscript soon after the boxes arrived.
